Vincan Culture

The Vinca culture represents the Young Neolithic and Early Neolithic culture of Europe (between the first centuries of the 5th millennium BC and the first centuries of the 4th millennium BC). It stretched from the middle Potisje in the north to the Skopje valley in the south and from the rivers Usora and Bosna in the west to the Sofia basin in the south, it included the territories of today's Serbia, Romania, Northern Macedonia, and Bosnia and Herzegovina. Vinca culture was the most technologically advanced prehistoric culture in the world. The earliest copper metallurgy in Europe originates from the Vinča locality of Belovode in Eastern Serbia. According to the general urban development plan of Belgrade, the coastal belt of the Danube in the Vinča zone has been declared an archeological park. ## Orthodox Ornament

The frescoes of Serbian medieval monasteries, in addition to extraordinary works of figural painting, contain an unusually rich and diverse ornamental repertoire. The ornament, as the basic decorative element in the fine arts, got its place in the space of the medieval sacral building as part of the overall program of church decoration. Every detail in that decoration was carefully thought out, grounded in church teachings and, as such, played its role in creating an ambiance that should evoke the beauty and presence of the divine, because Orthodox food is, according to the teachings of the Church, the house of God. ## Grapevine

Wine or as it is also called noble - Vitis vinifera L. It belongs to the family Vitaceae - lianas. Each wine plant is called a wine (gija, stump, or wine). The wine has certain organs, each of which has a special role in the life of the plant. Vegetative and generative organs are distinguished on each Wine. The stem of the grape must be short, of medium length, and long, depending on the variety.

Winemaking

After a few bumps on the road, the vineyards are slowly developing confidence in the new way of planting, and this method is becoming generally accepted, which has contributed to the renewal and development of viticulture. Once again, the vine and the Serbian farmer are starting from scratch. There are more and more educated craftsmen in the Zupa region, so the new technology of wine production is beginning to be applied and winegrowers are slowly learning and accepting it. Courses for squid are held regularly, with the best lecturers, the Agricultural Credit Association is established to improve the parish vineyards, the First Agricultural Exhibition is held ... viticulture and winemaking is experiencing its rise in quantitative and qualitative terms.

Bottle

Wine is made by squeezing grapes, and the juice obtained by roasting is called must. The basis of wine production is the chemical process of fermentation, during which, under the influence of yeast in anaerobic conditions, various sugars decompose to ethanol. The process of fermentation or fermentation usually lasts a few weeks, after which the wine is purified and poured into barrels or barrels. In Zupa, the thread of creation and respect is the essence of origin and survival.

An example and synonym for good mood and wine harmony.

When I think of you
I can feel your trembling heart

And cannot be torn apart
When I think of you

Andrijana

Abstraction becomes a reality when it enters our world boldly enough. That's exactly how Andrijana stepped in front of the lens. Her graceful beauty and the mystery set beyond her eyes attract the focus of the camera every time.

With every photo Andrijana sends us a message that the most important thing in the art as well as in life is to be genuine, natural and to always live in the present moment. It has been said that art imitates life and by looking to the photos of our model we can see the true beauty of life in the form of the art.

The flower that covers the lips sends a message of beauty and grace of a woman, but at the same time her tenderness. Bare backs are in the foreground, because we want to emphasize all the beauty of the body, but also the mystery that lies in our model, which we can see in her eyes.

Mural

Without a doubt, mural paintings have been around as long as people, as a form of valuable testimony of life from the prehistoric time to today. From the cave paintings at Lascaux Grottes in southern France to the street art murals of today, people have been leaving signs of their own existence in many places around the world. It is because of the earliest scratchings, carvings, etchings and paintings that we now have priceless knowledge of our history and predecessors, and these murals hold great significance for mankind, as they depicted life activities, everyday scenery and usually religious traditions of the time they were created in, giving us a priceless look of the diversity of our cultures during different periods.
